Item 20-0236 First off,the ban has done nothing. Every Thursday homes on either side of me use blowers.One is gas and smells of engine fumes in my house, the other is electric and although I don't get the fumes, I still get the incredibly loud noise and dust kicked up and into my window that the gas powered equipment does.I called police several times and nothing ever happens.I feel the use of these tools is very invasive on my well-being and highly encourage you to enforce the ban as it stands!

I would like transparency on who the contractor hires for personnel. If we have no say so on that matter it could turn out to be a TSA like issue where after they're hired one discovers that they have a prior criminal record. What are the qualifications for their personnel? We should know that and be a part of that process.

Return title to Bruces. If it takes a call to the county, so be it. The professor states the importance of language in any memorial to include the NAACP protest action of the '20s is crucial because it has historical import for both the NAACP in LA and public beach access in California. Makes sense. Your task force should include professional mediation/arbitration and a truth and reconciliation strategy.

Ban leafblowers-period. Blower service is unnecessary, loud, and blows dust. Effective substitutes (brooms/rakes) exist. Climate change/environmental concerns mean decreased discretionary noise/usage. Blowers add to overall lawn service noise and, noisier than mowers, are used high off ground & longer. Obvious from my 3 mos WFH that high pitch & repetitive volume changes from blowers were more grating than any other noise source. Only minor benefit from electric. Also, increase code enforcement.
